USA Student Visa

The USA has a rich selection of higher education institutes, which have long since attracted students from all corners of the globe. US academic qualifications are recognized and respected all over the world; another reason why so many foreign students flock to the US for their tertiary education.

This information pack explains everything you need to know about coming to the United States on a Student Visa.

If you are visiting the U.S. as a tourist, but want to take a short course of study, which is recreational or a vocational, you may be able to do so on a visitor visa so long as the course is less than 18 hours per week. If your course of study is 18 hours or more a week, you will need a student visa.

There are three types of Student Visas:

F1 visa for students studying academic courses including language courses

M1 visa for students wishing to take up vocational courses i.e. courses with a high degree of practical content like work experience

Application forms for both of these visa categories are included in this information pack.

J1 visa for students involved in an educational or cultural exchange program

Application forms for the J-1 visa category are NOT included in the information pack.

The US Department of State (DOS) and the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has strict rules about who it lets in to study in the US. It is vital that all prospective applicants apply for a visa in the correct category using the correct application forms. Failure to submit the form correctly and accurately can result in delays and sometimes denial. Failure to submit the correct supporting documents or to lie in your application can lead to a denial and in many cases you will not be allowed to apply for a US visa for a period of ten years.

Qualifying for a USA Student Visa

The US government actively encourages student visa applications and does not place quotas on the number of students allowed into the United States each year. Foreign students are able to study a wide variety of educational courses both academic and vocational or they may visit as part of an exchange program.

The main requirement for getting a US student visa is to be accepted by an approved educational institute.

Applicants must also prove that they have a residence abroad, which they will return to and that at the end of their study course they will leave the United States.

Student applicants must also possess sufficient funds to pursue the proposed course of study.

There are three types of visa available and applicants should be very clear about which one they choose:

The F-1 category includes academic students in colleges, universities, seminaries, conservatories, and academic high schools, other academic institutions, Fine Arts, and language training.

The M-1 category includes vocational, technical training, flight schools, and non-academic schools. Vocational Students must receive 18 hours of classroom training per week or 22 hours per week if the program is primarily lab work.

The J-1 category includes institutions promoting educational and cultural exchange programs. Applications for this visa are NOT included in this information pack.

US Visa Ineligibility:

There are several classes of people who are inadmissible to the US under the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), based on:

- Health related grounds – these could be people with communicable diseases or without proper vaccinations
- Criminal or related grounds – for example, controlled substance traffickers
- Security and related grounds – these include members of terrorist organizations
- Likely to become public charge, meaning people who will not be able to support themselves based on their age, health or other conditions
- Illegal entrants, immigration violators, or previously removed from the US

To find more information about persons, inadmissible to the US, you can go the relevant sections of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

In some cases an ineligible person can apply for a waiver of ineligibility and still get a visa. This can happen if it was a minor crime and they can prove they have rehabilitated from it, or, alternatively, a long time has passed after the crime was committed.

Length of Stay

F-1 Students can stay for the duration of their academic course and a further 60 days, to prepare for departure from the U.S. or to transfer to another school.

M-1 Students can stay for the duration of their academic course and a further 30 days to depart the U.S. The 30 days to prepare for departure is permitted as long as the student maintained a full course of study and maintained status. An M student may receive extensions up to three years for the total program.

USA Student Visa Application Pack

Work Entitlement

Except for on-campus employment of 20 hours a week or less, F-1 students are usually not allowed to work in the US without prior authorization from Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS). USCIS do give permission for practical training relating the student's course of study, but again authorization must be sought to officially obtain the 40 months of work experience towards practical training (e.g. internship). Some F-1 students may qualify for the Optional Practical Training (OPT) program, which is temporary employment that is directly related to an F-1 student's major area of study. Under the prior rules, an F-1 student could be authorized to receive up to a total of 12 months of practical training either before (pre-) and/or after (post-) completion of studies.

To be eligible for the 17-month OPT extension, a student must have received a degree included in the STEM Designated Degree Program List. This list sets forth eligible courses of study according to Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) codes developed by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES).

The STEM Designated Degree Program List includes the following courses of study:

o Computer Science Applications	o Biological and Biomedical Sciences
o Actuarial Science	o Mathematics and Statistics
o Engineering	o Military Technologies
o Engineering Technologies	o Physical Sciences
o Science Technologies	o Medical Scientist

To qualify, you must file Form I-765 with USCIS, Form I-20 endorsed by the DSO, a copy of the STEM degree, and the required application fee.

M-1 students may engage in practical training only after they have completed their studies. They can also work part-time at an on-campus job. Any off-campus employment must be related to their area of study and must be authorized prior to starting any work by the Designated School Official (the person authorized to maintain the Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS)) and USCIS.

Dependants

If you apply for an educational course under the F-1 and M-1 student visa you may bring over your immediate family i.e. you spouse, common-law or civil partner and your children. The dependent visa is classed as an F-2 or M-2 visa according to the primary applicant's status. Dependents should apply at the same time as the primary applicant and provide proof of their relationship to the student (e.g. marriage and birth certificates.). If the spouse and children apply separately at a later time, they should bring a copy of the student visa holder's passport and visa, along with all other required documents. Your dependents will not be able to work in the US unless they have filed Form I-765 Application for Employment Authorization and U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has approved permission to work.

Form I-765 has been included in this application pack

USA Student Visa Application Pack

Approved Educational Institutions

In order to get a US Student visa you need to be accepted into an approved educational institute included in the Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP) list. Click the link to find an approved education provider <http://www.ice.gov/doclib/sevis/pdf/ApprovedSchools.pdf>

Being an SEVP approved institution means that the university or college has a well established academic or vocational reputation and possesses all of the necessary facilities, personnel, and finances to conduct instruction in recognized courses of study as well as providing the correct amount of teaching hours (for vocational and English language schools this is a minimum of 18 hours a week.)

Before applying for your US Student Visa you should apply to one of the educational institutes on the list. If you are accepted to study with them they must issue you with a Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS) generated I-20, which you must submit when you apply for your student visa. Your school must also enter your information for the I-20 student visa into the SEVIS online database.

When you apply for your student visa, the consular officer will check your details on SEVIS to ensure it matches with the I-20 record attached to your application form. There is a fee attached to the SEVIS program, which each student applicant must pay to the DHS and then attach the SEVIS I-901 fee receipt. Click this link to fill out your I-901 form and proceed to payment: <https://www.fmjfee.com/i901fee/>

Student visa applicants should be aware that the Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP) is designed to help the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and Department of State monitor foreign student visitors. Information about each exchange visitor and student is kept in the Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS), an Internet-based system that records accurate and current information on non-immigrant students, exchange visitors, and their dependents. SEVIS enables educational institutions with foreign students to report on the student's activity and events at the institution to the Department of State (DOS) throughout a student or exchange visitor's stay in the United States.

Visa Interviews and Visa Processing Times

After you have completed the necessary forms and paid your fees, you will be able to make an appointment for the interview at the US embassy consular section in the country you are applying from. Everybody aged 14 to 79 are required to pass an interview. In order to find out more about how to make an appointment, visit the webpage of the Embassy or Consulate where you plan to apply by clicking this link:

<http://www.usembassy.gov/>

The waiting time for visa appointments is different for each country. You can find more about waiting times by visiting Visa Wait Times , and on most embassy websites.

The applicant is responsible for setting up his / her own visa appointment. You need to provide a receipt showing the visa application processing fee has been paid, when you come for your visa interview. You have to apply for your visa 120 days before you have to register for your study course. Applications submitted before the 120 day period will not be attended to until they qualify under the 120 day rule. You can submit your application after the 120 day time limit starts, but applicants are advised to apply early to avoid disappointment. You should take into account that you can enter the United States no earlier than 30 days before you are due to register onto your course. If you need to enter the US earlier than this you must apply for a visitor visa to cover the period in between.

You need to arrive at the outside entrance of the Embassy at your specified appointment time. The primary applicant will be the only person allowed into the building for the interview except in the case of children ages 17 and under.

During the interview the consular section officer will review your application and your supporting documentation. S/he might also ask some questions about your planned visit to the USA.

Fingerprinting, Medical and Personal Data

Your visa application must include a photograph and biometric data such as your fingerprints. Biometric information is classed as facial images and fingerprints. This information is stored on a US government database and will be accessed to check your criminal record or in the event of you being involved in a criminal act either as a victim or a perpetrator. You must give your biometric data at US embassy consular section in the country where you are applying for your US visa. When you attend your biometric interview you will be asked to put your fingers on a glass screen so that a digital photograph of your fingerprints can be taken. You will then be asked to sit before a camera so that your digital photo can be taken. The whole procedure takes around 5 to 10 minutes although appointments are scheduled at half hourly intervals.

Entering the US and Duration of Stay

US Visitors visa applicants should be aware that a visa is not a guarantee for entering the US. The final decision is made by a US Customs and Border Protection official. They have the final authority to grant or deny entry to the US.

If you are allowed to enter the US, the customs official will determine how long you stay by filling out an Arrival/Departure Record (form I-94). In most cases, you will see a specific date in the lower right-hand corner on the Form I-94. This is the date by which you must leave the United States.

Form I-94 is a very important document as it authorizes your stay in the U.S. It's very important to keep in your passport during your stay in the US.
